

Friendship: The Heartbeat of Global Peace

Across the mountains, beyond the seas
Beyond whispered winds and silent trees
A thread of love lies between you and me
Not drawn by maps nor lands
But held open with open hands.

A wholly laugh so light and free
A shared embrace shaping humanity
Erase the lines of indignity
Through kindness, bridges rise so high
A touch, a word, a simple deed
Plant seeds of peace in times of need.

Unity—a gift so rare
A bond so strong, no war can tear
For when we share, listen, and trust
Walls of fear dissolve to dust.

So let us build and not tear apart
With love in hand, with an open heart
For friendship's voice, both strong and deep
Is the rhythm of voice we all should keep.
